Alumnae Art Gallery To Feature 46 Paintings By Young African Boys

"Paintings by Young Africans", an exhibition of 46 paintings by Bantu boys from Southern Rhodesia, will go on view at the Alumnae Gallery, Madison College, March 10, continuing through March 28.

Brought to the United States with the assistance of Dr. Grace L. McCann Morley for a first presentation at the San Francisco Museum of Art, the paintings are present on a nation-wide tour under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution.

These are probably some of the most unusual child paintings ever seen here, for the boys who did them, ranging in age from 12 to 18 years, are scarcely out of the "bush". In fact, many of them leave their bush homes to board with relatives in order to go to the government schools in Salisbury, the capitol of Southern Rhodesia. While their sisters learn home economics, these boys attend the Chirodzo Art Center under the direction of Canon Edward Paterson. With the simplest of materials, thick paper and poster paint, Canon Paterson encourages them to experiment.

Sources who have seen the paintings have described them as follows: "Uninhibited by rules of perspective or long familiarity with art, either native or western, their bold brush strikes curve mysteriously, fantastically, recalling the lush vegetation and colorful landscapes of the terrain across which their tribe wandered as pastoral nomads. The boys have an unusual natural sense of balance and design and American viewers will find their paintings more than just decorative. They arrest the eye with vivid color and serpentine shapes and are a remarkable testimony to the value of Canon Paterson's resolve to leave these young minds free to follow imaginations which are still half in a primitive world."

Cut Policy Starting To Mean: Go Ahead! Cut, If You Dare

There has been created no perfect system for the evaluation of a person's progress made in his class work, and many contemporary educators now argue that grades should not be given. It is not the purpose of this article to debate over the value of marks or grades given the student to represent his academic achievement; but, since the system of grading students exists, we would like to see it administered fairly.

Last semester we received reports that faculty members were lowering students' grades according to the number of absences charged against him. Although the students had their required "C" average to take "unlimited cuts," they felt they were being graded on the number of classes they attended. In fact, one professor took ten minutes out of a first class meeting of the semester to explain that he would consider, when he came to the students final grade, the number of cuts the student had taken. He said that although the student was supposedly allowed nine cuts for the three hour course, the student's interest in the class should prevent him from cutting—except in the case of an emergency. In other words, the professor's philosophy is that the attendance of the student is equal to his interest in the class? To us, an instructor who submits grades on this basis to the Registrar's Office is submitting an attendance record rather than a true indication of the student's achievement.

Since Madison does profess to have an unlimited cut system, we feel it should clarify its position in regard to permitting students to cut classes within their legal limit. We feel the students are entitled to know when the cut system means that a student who exercises the privileges granted to them under the system must pay penalties imposed by those few professors who regard an absence for their class as a personal insult.

We further feel that if a student does take the full number of cuts allowed him under the system and still does his work, he should receive that grade which he earns without the professor having to take his attendance record into consideration. A student may be very interested in a course but still have to take cuts. His interest in a class will show up by the work he does, not by his attendance record; he therefore should be graded according to his work, not his attendance record!

Stratford Players Receive Plaudit From Playwright

Madison College's Stratford Players received the plaudits of Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright, Marc Connelly, for their production of Bartold Brecht's "Measures Taken" at the College Drama Festival in Richmond, February 29. James C. Ling, Assistant Professor of Speech and Director of the Stratford Players, has reported that Mr. Connelly complimented the Players for their discipline, control, and rigidity of form.

"Marc Connelly noted that the Madison group performed Brecht exactly the way Brecht should be performed," Mr. Link said. "This is very encouraging to us, since Brecht is considered difficult to perform," Mr. Link added.

Mr. Connelly expressed pleasure at the manner in which the play held interest and continued to move forward.

The festival was followed by a banquet at which scene designer Donald Oenslager was the featured speaker.

Prior to their performance in the College Drama Festival, the Stratford Players presented their production in a special performance at the college, February 28. A faculty symposium was held after the performance.

Six Virginia colleges participated in the festival held at the Virginia Museum Theatre. Other colleges included in the festival were: Mary Washington College, College of William and Mary, Hollins College, University of Virginia, and Lynchburg College.

The Stratford Players will present Samuel Becket's "Waiting for Godot" at the College April 17 and 18.

Company Sponsors Contest To Choose College Queen

The tenth annual College Queen contest, sponsored by Renault, Inc., is open to any unmarried, Madison student who is between the ages of 17 and 22, and who is a full-time student here.

The College Queen will be chosen on the basis of intelligence and beauty. A board of nationally known judges will choose the individual state queens and the national queen for her attractiveness, charm, personality and appearance, plus scholastic accomplishment, campus activities, hobbies and interest in community service.

A total of 50 winners (one from each state) will be selected this spring. They will each be given a week's expense-paid trip to New York and the 1964 World's Fair, where final judging will determine the 1964 College Queen. Prizes include a French sports car, a trip to Paris and to other European cities, and cash.

There are no local "run-off" contests, and each college can submit the names of more than one contestant, although only one girl from each state will be picked for the New York World's Fair trip.

Preliminary entry blanks can be obtained from any Renault dealer, or they can be secured directly from the National College-Queen Contest Committee, Paramount Building, 1501 Broadway, New York City. The deadline for submitting applications is Monday, April 20, 1964.

Student Petitions For Seal Change

Dear Editor,

The article last week concerning the Madison College Emblem was somewhat distorted. I was quoted as saying that I was also for doing away with the spinning wheel and the bee hive, because they suggest the normal school of 1908. I only suggested in my petition that the "head, heart, and hand" be replaced. Marshall Cook suggested the changes and during the editing I was given credit for both. I am still only petitioning for the changing of the three words.

I urge everyone whether they are for or against the project to sign

Reed, Barton Hold Silver Competition

During the months of February and March, Reed & Barton silver-smiths are conducting a "Silver Opinion Competition" in which valuable scholarships totaling $2050 are being offered to duly enrolled women students at a few selected colleges and universities.

Madison College has been selected to enter this Competition in which the First Grand Award is a $500 cash scholarship; Second Grand Award is a $300 scholarship; Third Grand Award is a $250 scholarship; Fourth, Fifth and Sixth awards are $200 scholarships; and Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth are $100 scholarships. In addition, there will be 100 other awards consisting of sterling silver, fine china and crystal with a retail value of approximately $50.00.

In the 1964 "Silver Opinion Competition," an entry form illustrates twelve designs of sterling with eight designs of both china and crystal. The entrants simply list the three best combinations of sterling, china, and crystal from the patterns illustrated. Scholarships and awards will be made to those entries matching or coming closest to the unanimous selections of table-setting editors from three of the nation's leading magazines.

Pat Thomas is the Student Representative who is conducting the "Silver Opinion Competition" for Reed & Barton on campus. Those interested in entering the "Silver Opinion Competition" should contact her at Hoffman Room 115 for entry blank and for complete details concerning the Competition rules. She also has samples of 12 of the most popular Reed & Barton designs so that entrants can see how these sterling patterns actually look.

Through the opinions on silver design expressed by college women competing for these scholarships, Reed & Barton hopes to compile a valuable library of expressions of young American Taste.

All students are encouraged to participate in this contest.

the petition so it will come to a vote for the entire student body. I realize that there are a number of students who love Madison College just as it is. However, I feel that if brought to a vote, "Head, Heart, and Hand" would be a by-gone memory. A student vote is the only democratic way to settle the matter because then those whose positions on campus bar them from committing themselves can express their feelings by secret ballot. I plan to continue this campaign until it is brought to a vote and either carried or defeated.

Phi Mu Sorority Has Service In Honor Of Founders' Day

Editor's Note: The following article is the sixth in a series of seven. The sorority stories will be featured at the time of their respective Founder's Days.

Phi Mu celebrated its 112th annual Founders' Day program on March 4. To celebrate Founders' Day, Phi Mus entertained alumnae with a tea in Hoffman Hall. This was the first opportunity for entertaining in the new reception rooms of Hoffman Hall. Mrs. Elizabeth Neatrou of the foreign language department spoke to the chapter at their banquet at the Belle Meade.

Although relatively new to Madison's campus, Phi Mu Fraternity was founded 112 years ago on March 4, 1852 at Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, and has the distinction of being the second oldest woman's fraternity in the United States. From the small Philomethian Society established by the three founders, Mary Myrick Daniels, Mary Dupont Lines, and Martha Hardaway Redding, Phi Mu has grown and now has over 40,000 collegiate and alumnae members.

Gamma Theta Chapter was established at Madison in January, 1960; the charter members were previously members of Delta Tau Alpha, a local group. The fraternity colors are rose and white and her flower is the Enchantress Carnation.

Elective officers of Gamma Theta Chapter are: President, Sandra Blosser; Vice-president, Ruth Monsch; Recording secretary, Carolyn Arehart; Corresponding secretary, Barbara Prince; Treasurer, Roberta Prettyman; Panhellenic Delegate, Judy Quarrie; Standards Chairman, Mary Pindexter; Fraternity Education Chairperson, Linda Gaslette; Scholarship Chairman, Nancy Jo Harcum.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Blair and Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Sas serve as patrons for the Fraternity. Dr. Sara Anderson is sponsor of Phi Mu.

During the traditional Founders' Day service, honoring the principles of scholarship and service to others established by the founders, pennies were contributed to the Alpha Memorial Fund for each
